

DOING BUSINESS WITH FRD

Interagency Agreements (or comparable fund-transferring documents) with FRD are authorized under the Library of Congress Fiscal Operations Improvement Act of 2000 (Pub. L. 106-481, 114 STAT. 2187, 2 U.S.C. 182c). This act establishes the Federal Research Program Revolving Fund in the U.S. Treasury that allows funds to remain on account without fiscal year limitation until expended.

FRD's Marketing Office helps define the work needed and prepares proposals that describe the project scope, deliverables, and costs. Following acceptance of the proposal, an IAA is prepared by FRD for signature by the ordering agency.

Federal agency contractors can obtain FRD services through Federal Acquisition Regulation 51.1 — Contractor Use of Government Supply Sources.

Others may obtain FRD custom research services via the National Technical Information Service (http://www.ntis.gov/services/loc_main.asp).

CONTACT

For more information, contact the Federal Research Division using the information on the back of the brochure.

Library of Congress
Federal Research Division
101 Independence Avenue, S.E.
Washington, DC 20540-4840
Telephone: 202-707-3909
Fax: 202-707-3920
Email: frds@loc.gov
<http://www.loc.gov/rr/frd>

Providing fee-based custom research services and products to entities of the Federal Government since 1948.

- Research and analysis
 - Document delivery
 - Translations
 - Foreign-language research
 - Literature surveys
 - Annotated bibliographies
 - Database development
 - Studies and reports
 - Books
 - Writing and editing
 - Desktop publishing
 - Web site development
 - Digital conversion
-

THE FEDERAL RESEARCH PROGRAM

Offered by the Federal Research Division of the Library of Congress

The FEDERAL RESEARCH DIVISION (FRD) is the principal fee-for-service research and analysis unit within the Library of Congress. FRD services are available to agencies of the United States Government and the District of Columbia for directed research, analysis and translations needed to carry out their missions. FRD has been performing this service on a cost-recovery basis since 1948 and stands ready to work for your agency.

SERVICES

Using the unparalleled collections of the Library of Congress, FRD's experienced research staff provides customized information and analysis in tailor-made formats based on specific agency requirements. These rich resources are supplemented by other information sources accessed worldwide. Services range from document delivery to detailed analytical studies and reports, and include literature surveys and database and web site development. As needed, FRD staff will exploit the rich foreign-language holdings of the Library of Congress to provide comprehensive surveys of literature in the international arena.

RESOURCES

FRD offers its clients an insider's access to:

- Comprehensive coverage of legal, scientific, technical, historical, cultural, political, international affairs, sociological, economic, national security, and numerous other fields of research.

- Nearly 130 million books, newspapers, journals, technical reports, gray literature, manuscripts, maps, audiovisual, photographs, microforms, and other special-format materials.

*Images:
above — Thomas Jefferson Building, opened in 1897;
right — John Adams Building opened in 1939;
below — James Madison Building, opened in 1981.*

- 200,000 current periodical titles — 80,000 in foreign languages — received annually.
- More than 12 million bibliographic records representing books, serials, computer files, manuscripts, cartographic materials, music, sound recordings, and visual materials from the Library's English and foreign-language collections in the Online Catalog.

- Electronic information in a variety of databases, CD-ROMs, and other formats.
- The world's largest collection of foreign and domestic laws and legal gazettes.
- Materials in more than 460 languages.
- Some 10,000 new items added daily to the Library's collections.

BENEFITS

Here are some of the benefits your agency derives when FRD works for you:

- Cost-effective and convenient means of meeting immediate and long-range information needs.
- Immediate assistance in defining requirements and meeting objectives.
- Experienced analysis of a wide range of topics across numerous disciplines.
- Direct access, via our specialists, to the largest open-source research collection in the world.
- Reliable and accessible information prepared in specially designed formats.
- Expertise in more than 25 foreign languages.
- Professional relationships with area and subject specialists, most with advanced degrees.